Whitaker Named RenPSG Chief Financial Officer

Former CFO of the Year Joins Executive Leadership Team

Indianapolis, Ind. – Kay Whitaker joined the RenPSG team in June 2017 as the Executive Vice President, Client Accounting, bringing more than 25 years of financial management experience. Upon the retirement of RenPSG’s CFO, Steve Ko this past October, Whitaker stepped in to assume the role in a seamless transition.

Whitaker has repeatedly built scalable finance operations for growth companies. Most recently she was at Odyssey Media Group, a millennial focused social content company. Prior to that she served as EVP and Chief Financial Officer for First Internet Bancorp, as they went public. She was named the 2012 CFO of the year by the Indianapolis Business Journal, while at Central Indiana Community Foundation. She also has a strong commitment to philanthropy, serving on numerous boards.

“It is a privilege to be part of RenPSG’s story – offering the broadest charitable gifts platform to an often underserved segment has resulted in significant growth in recent years. I am excited to be part of this strong management team that will continue to find ways to maximize the dollars that go to causes by keeping administrative costs low.”

As the CFO, Whitaker oversees the accounting and budgeting operations and procedures at RenPSG as well as the accounting services RenPSG provides to clients including nonprofit organizations and financial services firms.

“Kay has been an invaluable addition to RenPSG since she joined our team earlier in the year. She has effectively worked cross-functionally to enhance our client accounting methods, processes and technologies as well as building an industry leading team. She has also gained a greater understanding of our business and clients and was the logical choice when it was time to fill the CFO role. I’m excited about working with Kay in her new role to continue to drive incremental value to all of our stakeholders.” said Ed Thompson, President and CEO of RenPSG.
